

Appendix A: Node-specific data

136. The following tables provide node-by-node responses to the quantitative questions in the survey instrument. They are provided in response to requests from nodes that the data should be disaggregated, and nodes thus able to see where they stand compared with others.
137. Although percentages are provided, readers should be aware that we are dealing with relatively small cell sizes, and the results are not statistically reliable; rather, they should be treated as indicative of the views of respondents from specific nodes.
